NFIB Endorses Jeremy Miller in Race for State Senate in District 31

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 29, 2010—The National Federation of Independent Business’s political action committee, Minnesota Save America’s Free Enterprise Trust, enthusiastically endorsed Jeremy Miller today in the race against State Sen. Sharon Erickson Ropes in District 31.

NFIB is the state’s and nation’s largest small business advocacy group with approximately 12,000 members in Minnesota and a significant member base in every district.

Jeremy Miller is a strong supporter of small business and is the chief financial officer for Wm. Miller Scrap Iron and Metal Co a family-owned business since 1910. “He has a tremendous concern for small business and for improving the Minnesota business climate, and that is much appreciated” said State Director Mike Hickey.

On the other hand, Sen. Sharon Erickson Ropes has a cumulative NFIB voting record of only 35 percent for the years she has served in the Legislature. She has voted against small business on key issues the vast majority of the time.

“When you add it all up, it’s an easy choice for us in District 31” said Hickey. “We strongly and enthusiastically support Jeremy Miller and urge small business owners across this legislative district to vote for Jeremy on Election Day.”
