

The Winona Daily News included the following descriptions of the two candidates in the District 31 Minnesota State Senate race in their October 28, 2010 endorsement edition:

Sharon Erickson Ropes:

"When she's the front person for Sharon and the Sycophants, she becomes shrill and self-serving, introducing hundreds of bills destined only to constipate the Legislature and garner attention. And some of her campaign volunteers need a new hobby." (Winona Daily News October 28, 2010)

Jeremy Miller:

"Jeremy Miller has proven he's a public-minded public servant who comes from a civic-minded family. He serves the community well on a variety of boards and initiatives. He has campaigned hard and would do us proud in St. Paul." (Winona Daily News October 28, 2010)

Which characteristics would you like to see in your next State Senator?